

How to prepare your child to the correct choice of profession

The child completes the ninth grade, or already in the tenth grade, and before it begins to loom the choice of a profession. Well if the son or daughter from childhood to know what will be doing in the future. But it happens that in the eleventh grade the child is still undecided with difficulty presents itself in adult life.

So what is the right career choice. Until recently was considered that the right to genuine essay writing service choose a profession, it means to choose her forever. Many representatives of the older generation proudly told me that he worked at one job all his life. They have been trained to work specifically and it is a happy lived life.

So parents, especially undecided students begin to put pressure on children to make them choose the right Institute, or make the choice for them. Often, such graduates can not decide even with the range of subject matter to pass the exam, as they have no specific preferences.

Yes, these students go to College, but usually the paid Department, because of budget places they have neither the knowledge nor the desire. Doubly a shame when the end of the Institute will be that the profession that they received, uninteresting and unloved.

But sometimes a child does well in school, knows to be, goes to a prestigious University. But during the study realizes that the wrong choice and leaves it, complete their education, or to proceedings for admission were not in vain.

So what to do, and the child and his parents not to waste their time, nerves and money?

First, it is not necessary to do tragedy, if the child is to the end of school not yet decided on his future. Go to College and later. As long as you can get to work. Still anyone. Courier, waiter, pizza guy.

Let your child look around themselves, don't push it, don't rush. Work for a year or so, you know what it pulls.

Second, choosing a specialty, try to look ahead and ask yourself the question: will it exist in 10 – 15 years. The world is changing very quickly. Some professions go, others appear. So should I now pay for the education of the work that will soon disappear.

Look for information about in-demand occupations. Perhaps some of them just emerging and not yet widely disseminated. Then the child has a chance to become one of the first.

Third, to determine the inclinations of a son or daughter, use career guidance tests. They do not give a definitive answer, what career would fit a child. But will help find the inclination to do anything, interests, abilities.

No person who has no interests. It is necessary to perform the child's Hobbies and think about how to translate them into a favorite work. Most young people spend their free time at the computer. So why not use it?

Now from the real world, the Internet has moved many jobs, they will long continue to occupy a leading position.

When choosing your future it is important to remember that not scared to make a mistake, afraid to do nothing. Life is long, and you may have to change the scope of activities. In the end, the person is required to find, what is in his soul.

Don't rush your child, don't push him, and then he will be able to make their choice freely and consciously.
